Wise Desert Pack Rat
Hold Interest Coolidge
A Stormy Sea, Shipmates
Captain Dollar Is Calm

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE has been to California, ought to accept an invitation to visit this Mojave desert. There, below a big rock, he could see a complicated ingenious structure of small branches, each one carefully protecting the hole of a desert rat.

Probably no American rat, no matter how black and brown his fur, is as large as the desert rat. It fears rattlesnakes, coyotes and ground owls. It has enemies; otherwise it would not exist.

But rats do exist, and might appear at any time, sliding down the rock to their death.

The desert rat prepares and does not flinch, with thorns and cactus.

That explains why the fellows, those whose work-benches are a million and whose salaries are a million or two, are not disturbed by election. Rebellious gentlemen in Wisconsin and elsewhere, who believe the rule that big incomes should be controlled, seem to have little in a senate so closely divided.

That does not worry intelligent big business. Everybody knows how the United States parliament would have voted on a proposition to touch off Guy Fawkes powder as it lay in the vaults under the members' seats.

That shows how this American congress would vote on any proposition to interfere seriously with our government of intelligent and moderately benevolent plutocracy.

WE are a conservative nation, busy getting richer, and this is no time for any one that takes radicalism seriously. "What are you trying to find out about?" big business asks the little man. "Aren't you getting five dollars a day, and sometimes six? Take it and shut up." And the little man usually shuts up. Ask him what he thinks about Russia.

VIRTUE in the senate plans to throw out Vare, of Pennsylvania, and Smith, of Illinois, because cash helped them.

But the people are supposed to choose senators, and the voters knew as much about Vare and Smith as any senator did when the votes were cast.

THE senate might say, "We know things that you voters did not know when you voted, so we reject these men." But they have no right to say. You accepted those men, knowing all about them, but we won't allow you to have them."

SUCH news as comes here to the Mojave desert indicates that Republicans will control the senate by one vote, which would mean that the Republican party might be controlled by one vote.

This column has suggested frequently during the past few years that a time would come when the Republicans would wish they had been more polite to young La Follette, and some others. That time has come.

ONE wise political writer thinks Butler's defeat in Massachusetts, in spite of the president's earnest appeal to the voters, will injure Mr. Coolidge. It will, says one writer, increase "objection to the third-term idea."

It can't do that, for there is no such notion involved. Mr. Coolidge has been elected president once, Washington as much quoted, was elected twice. President Coolidge undoubtedly can have the second nomination if he wants it.

Washington C. H., "Broke," Plans To Use Ex-Soldiers as Police and Firemen

Washington Courthouse, Nov. 6 — This town may be patrolled by American Legion men and its fire department be manned by veterans of the World War after Sunday, because citizens failed to vote favorably on a three-mill bond issue last night.

Attorney General Allen has notified the public utilities companies that the state and will not be responsible for more bills contracted. His action was to cut the fire and police departments to one man each. Then he ordered the offices to his own private office, closing the city hall.

JUDGE-ELECT PLANNING WORK IN NEW COURT

William R. Martin To Visit Municipal Tribunals in Other Cities

BLUE-PRINTS DRAWN

Arrangements Being Made To Move Many Departments to Second Floor

William R. Martin, of 1180 E. Church-st, elected Tuesday as Marion's first Municipal judge, has already begun preparations for the opening of the new tribunal, which is scheduled for Jan. 1, 1927. Mr. Martin states that to obtain information to assist him in planning the conduct of the court he will visit numerous Ohio cities where similar courts are in operation, his program being to make a trip to one or two of these places each week prior to Jan. 1.

It is the intention of the judge-elect to launch his survey next week with visits to Columbus and Springfield and to include Dayton, Cleveland, Toledo, Steubenville, East Liverpool and possibly other points in the remainder of his schedule.

Martin's Plans

It is the purpose of Mr. Martin to have all details of his program for management of the new tribunal definitely fixed before the date for the formal opening.

The task confronting the newly elected jurist is more difficult and complicated to follow because of the fact that he has no precedent to follow as far as local conditions are concerned. For that reason, information to be obtained in other cities where municipal courts have been in operation is expected to be vitally important and valuable.

Numerous other preliminary work must be attended to by the head of the new tribunal during the next few weeks. One of the most important details is the organization of a force of employes, which is to include one or two bailiffs, a clerk, assitsant clerk, stenographer and probably an assistant prosecutor.

The City Solicitor, it is stated, will be court prosecutor and because of the

WOMAN'S DEATH BRINGS CRITICISM OF DRY LAW

Change in Statute Governing Raids Urged as Cleveland Case Is Probed

Cleveland, Nov. 6—A change in the state law which permits dry raiders to work without restriction as to territory was urged here today by Safety Director Edwin D. Barry, as an investigation of the death of Mrs. John Pongracz, 42, got under way.

The woman died, presumably of fright and shock, a few minutes after four dry raiders working under a suburban justice of the peace raided her home in Cleveland late yesterday. Barry questioned the raiders for an hour, after Cleveland police had picked them up. They declared they found half a pint of whisky and 100 gallons of wine in the house and that they had a search warrant.

Police today were checking reports that the woman had been roughly treated by the raiders. The woman's husband announced he would bring a damage suit against the raiders on behalf of himself and his five children. An autopsy was to be performed today, to check reports by an undertaker that he found marks upon the woman's abdomen, indicating she had been roughly handled.

PROTESTS LOOMING IN RAILROAD CASE

Many Ohio Organizations Authorized To Intervene By Interstate Commission

Washington, Nov. 6—The plan of the New York Central Railroad to acquire control under lease of the Big Four, Michigan Central and Chicago, Kalamazoo & Saginaw Railroads will be vigorously protested before Interstate Commerce Commission, it was indicated when the commission permitted organizations to intervene in the case.

Those authorized to intervene include the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, Ohio Farm Bureau Service Co., Ohio Public Utilities Commission, the stockholders Protective Committee of the Big Four, Athens, Ohio Chamber of Commerce and district No. 6 of the United Mine Workers.

BODY OF ANNIE OAKLEY TAKEN TO CINCINNATI

Cincinnati, Nov. 6—Annie Oakley, known in private life as Mrs. Frank Butler, but once heralded throughout the world and under the "big tops" as the "greatest rifle woman of the universe," was to come back to Cincinnati today.

And here, where many times she drew awed respect from young and old with dazzling feats of marksmanship, her body was to be cremated—it was her last wish before she died earlier this week in Greenville, Ohio.

SMALL TAXPAYERS WILL GET REBATE

Washington, Nov. 6—The average small taxpayer in America will get a refund of 25 cents if congress approves President Coolidge's plan for a 10 to 12 per cent rebate on 1926 incomes, it was revealed today by treasury figures.

Income tax officials regard the "average small taxpayer" as a married man with two dependents who earns $5,000 or less a year.

LEVY FAILURE MAY HANDICAP MEEKER SCHOOL

Shortening of Year Likely Officials Say; Board Lacks Funds

Shortening of the school year in the Meeker district, west of Marion, is likely as a result of a special tax levy needed for paying operating expenses having been defeated in Tuesday's election, it was announced by county school officials today. According to present indications, schools in the district will be able to operate only about five months in 1927 with the revenue coming from the regular levy. The regulation school year runs nine months.

In 1924 the Meeker district faced a similar crisis as a consequence of inadequate funds but the problem was solved at that time by the state ordering an emergency levy after a proposal had been turned down by the voters. Conditions existing at that time making it possible for the state to issue an emergency order do not prevail now, it is stated, and as a consequence there is no relief in sight through action by officials at Columbus.

The levy ordered in 1924 enabled the Meeker district to meet all expenses and clean up indebtedness for that year and also to operate throughout 1925 and 1926. The 1927 revenue, however, will not be sufficient for nine months operation.

While county school officials are planning to make a thorough investigation of the situation in hope of finding some means of solving the Meeker problem, there is no solution in sight at this time, it is indicated. In former years it would have been possible to submit the tax levy proposal at a special election, but under the present law action on such matters can be taken only at regular elections.

The Meeker school district is one of the largest in the county, taking in parts of four townships.

100 ARE INDICTED BY FEDERAL GRAND JURY

Liquor, Dope and Fraud Cases Included in Charges Filed at Cleveland

Cleveland, Nov. 6—Forty-three indictments involving about 100 defendants on charges ranging from liquor and dope to mail fraud, were on record here today, having been returned by the federal grand jury late yesterday after ten days deliberation.

John French, Akron, who was sentenced to five years in the Atlanta federal prison just five minutes after the indictment for using the mails to defraud was returned against him.

Seventy per cent of the indictments returned charged the defendants with violations of the national prohibition law. Noteworthy among these was that of Harry E. Dorsey, former mayor of Lindale, Ohio, who is charged with accepting a bribe to free a liquor violator and indicted on a "conspiracy" count.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 6—Attorneys representing Isabelle Pope, fiancee and heir of William "Billy" McClintock of Chicago, today filed notice with the clerk of the Supreme Court that they will file a petition for re-hearing of the court's decision at the October term admitting McClintock's will to probate.

The will of McClintock, for whose death William Sheppard stood trial for murder, left a $1,000,000 estate to Sheppard, who was acquitted.

HERE IS CAR "TIRELESS BUD" BRADLEY WILL DRIVE

Above are shown the man who claims he can drive 110 hours without stopping, "Tireless Bud" Bradley; the man who says it's impossible, J. L. Price, head of the Marion Buick Co., and the car in which the attempt will be made. Both men selected the Buick Standard Six sedan for the attempted feat. Price is standing at the right.

Chief Thompson to Handcuff Endurance Record Aspirant to Wheel Monday Night

BY GILMORE HIETT

TOSSED from the obscurity of a private argument into public spotlight by sudden decisive action on the part of the principals, the J. L. Price vs. "Tireless Bud" Bradley issue today assumed an important role in ranking with other local topics for discussion.

The placing of a $1,000 wager and the signing of a written contract as the result of the contention of Bradley that he could drive an automobile for 110 hours without stopping to eat, sleep or rest and the contention of J. L. Price, of the Marion Buick Co., E. Center-st, that the feat would be humanly impossible, even under the most ideal conditions, has offered to Marion people a thing that carries much for speculation.

Bradley and Price are losing no time in preparing for the test which will start Monday night at nine-thirty o'clock in front of the Star office. Bradley submitted to Price the list of accessories that he wishes placed on the car, Price filling his part of the written contract to furnish the best available car for the test, announced his selection as the Buick Standard Six Sedan. He says that it has more power than Bradley will ever need or use, has every piece of equipment necessary for solid comfort and has the endurance to stand the "gaff" of four nights and nearly five days continuous operation.

Special equipment equipment on the car will include a dozen or more spotlights which Bradley has especially requested, an extra tire and tube, tire cover, tire lock, stop light, motor meter and cap, telegauge, shock absorbers, bumpers (front), bumperettes (back), rear vision mirror, automatic windshield wiper and a heater.

"Tireless Bud" in a statement for publication today said, "Price has taken me up on this thing with a seeming attitude that he considers it an idle boast. I intend to impress him that I am very serious. My belief in my ability to drive the car for 110 hours, I have every confidence founded on sound

FIVE BANDITS HOLD-UP TOLEDO BRANCH TODAY

Unmasked Men Scoop Cash in Sight While Victims Look on

Toledo, Nov. 6 — Five unmasked white bandits, heavily armed, raided the branch of the commerce Guardian Bank and Trust Co. at South and Sumpter-sts here at noon today and escaped with from $5,000 to $10,000 in currency.

The bandits drove to the front of the bank in a maroon colored sedan and five of them rushed the bank, while a sixth man remained at the wheel of the machine.

Flourishing revolvers in true wild western style, the holdup men forced bank employes and two customers who were at the windows to hold up their hands. The bandits scooped up all the bills in sight, backed out of the bank and fled in their car.

A policeman entered the bank just as the holdup men were leaving, but as he was off duty and unarmed, he did not attempt to resist them.

The bandits did not shoot and one was injured during the robbery, which required but a few minutes to complete.

Police squads in automobiles started a hunt for the bandits' car.

EXPECT DECISION TO BE HELD FOR 30 DAYS

Attorneys Finish Arguments in Goodyear Rubber Co. Case Today

Akron, Nov. 6—Legal action aimed at wresting control of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. from the present management by a group of stockholders, was concluded today, when attorneys for both sides finished their arguments. Common Pleas Judge S. D. Kenfield, reserved his decision.

If the court rules that a decree issued by the late Judge W. J. Ahern in 1923 was, in effect, a "settlement" of former litigation and did not involve adjudication of the issues, it is admitted that the way will be open for new suits by the group now bringing the action. These are represented by Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war. A decision is not expected before 30 days.

Langley and Ruether are being held for investigation.

ERIE ELIMINATED FROM ANTI-SMOKE CAMPAIGN

Shops and Roundhouse Not Inside City Limits, City Solicitor Tells Health Board

The Erie Railroad Co's shops and roundhouse can not be included in the "clean air" campaign started by the Marion Board of Health at its monthly meeting, Thursday afternoon, the board was informed today by City Solicitor Grant E. Mouser Jr. The Erie's shop property is outside the city limits and as a consequence is not subject to supervision or control by either City Council or the Health Board, the solicitor stated.

This information came from Mr. Mouser as the result of a resolution adopted by the board demanding that the Pollak Steel Co. and the Erie install equipment necessary for eliminating smoke and soot against which residents of the south and west sections of the city are said to be complaining. The resolution was introduced by Mrs.

TWO THEORIES BASIS OF MURDER PROBE

Believe Love Triangle or Bootleggers' War Back of Slaying of Man in Cleveland

Cleveland, Nov. 6—Detectives here today advance two theories for the death of Angelo Bottaro—a love-triangle or warfare between bootleggers. He had been convicted three times on liquor charges.

Bottaro was killed by a fusillade of shots as he sat in an automobile. He had been invited to "take a ride" by another man, believed also to have been an illicit rum dealer.

Police are questioning Bottaro's sweetheart.

WOUNDED COLORED MAN DISMISSED AT HOSPITAL

Henry Johnson Recovers from Injury Inflicted During Poolroom Quarrel

Henry Johnson, 25, who was shot about two weeks ago when attacked by Richard McKinney, 27, in a Hockingport pool room, was released from the City Hospital at noon, Friday, having completely recovered from the effect of his wound. The 38-caliber bullet which came from a revolver fired by McKinney was not removed from Johnson's body, physicians finding that an operation was unnecessary. The bullet entered Johnson's left side above the hip and lodged in the right side of his abdomen.

The shooting resulted from rivalry between the two men over the affections of a woman, according to police reports. All of the parties involved are colored and the shooting occurred in the city's West Side negro settlement. McKinney is now a prisoner in the county jail, awaiting action by the grand jury on a charge of shooting with intent to kill.

Johnson is employed as a car washer at the Chevrolet automobile agency on S. Main-st.

YOUTH DRIVEN TO SUICIDE ACT, FATHER CLAIMS

Says Wife's Craving for Finery Was Cause; Rescue Started Romance

Paul Holt, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Holt, 357 Mary-st, who ended his life by swallowing strychnine at a hotel in New Castle, Ind., where he had gone in a futile attempt to effect a reconciliation with his estranged wife, was driven to the suicidal act, his father charged today.

"It was the wife's craving for money with which to buy finery and her dissatisfaction over being unable to get them that culminated the tragedy," the father explained.

"Paul met his estranged wife, Mrs. Evelyn Stafford in New Castle last summer when he saved her from drowning in a small lake at Harvey Park. Out of this grew a romance. They were married about Aug. 15 at New Castle and came to Marion to live.

"When Paul brought his bride to Marion we invited them to make their home with us. During the last two weeks in August Mrs. Holt and I went to Michigan and left Paul and his bride in charge of our home. During our absence Paul's wife canned some fruit and vegetables and when we came back we came to the conclusion that Paul had married a girl who would make him a good wife.

"During the latter part of September Evelyn expressed a desire to go to Terre Haute and obtain employment in a hotel. She insisted that Paul go with her. We tried to dissuade them.

Go To Terre Haute

"Finally they went to Terre Haute. Shortly after they left Paul's mother found a letter signed by "Evelyn Stafford and directed to a "Friend." It contained a request for $15.

"Paul did not take the position in Terre Haute but returned to Anderson Ind., where a friend of ours procured employment for him in a factory there. Because of the girl's continued dissatisfaction Paul threw up his job there and came back to Marion with his wife. That was about three weeks ago.

"Paul obtained employment at the Pollak Steel Co. and several days later rented an apartment on Hermanst. He took possession of the apartment last Monday.

"Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock Paul went to work on the night shift at the steel plant. When he returned he found that his wife had left the apartment. When she did not return that night he came to our home and told his mother that he could not live without the girl. His mother tried to dissuade him from following the girl to New Castle.

"Finally Paul drew $50 from the bank and started to New Castle. We heard no more from them until the

Piqua and Covington Minus Route to Dayton as Interurban Suspends

Columbus, Nov. 6—Citizens of Piqua and Covington will need to provide their own means of transportation to Dayton after tonight at midnight, when the Dayton-Covington-Piqua Traction Co. suspends operation, for the utilities commission will not take action until some time next week, and possibly for a month, on the eight applications for permission to operate a bus line between the points, the commission declared today.

Members of the commission declared there may be a possibility that the applicants have not conformed with the law relative to advertising, which might delay the granting of a permit for a month.

OFFICIALS HALT ALL EFFORTS TO GET CONFESSION

To Concentrate on Evidence Said To Incriminate Four Others

ARRAIGNMENT MONDAY

Attorney Charges Prosecutor "Propositioned" McDermott To Get Others

Canton, Nov. 6—With the trial of Pat McDermott for the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, set for Dec. 6, and his arraignment scheduled for Monday, Prosecutor C. B. McClintock and Ora Slater, Cincinnati sleuth, today halted their attempts to obtain the "key figure's" confession and concentrated on a stack of evidence which is believed to incriminate at least four others in the assassination plot.

Slater today was well under way in his investigation of the antecedents of Morris Nadel, Cleveland bootlegger, who, according to police furnished Pat with money, while he hid away for three months.

E. L. Mills, Canton Attorney for Pat McDermott and Louis Mazer, today gave his version of what took place at the interviews between McClintock and Pat, when the prosecutor attempted to obtain a confession from McDermott.

According to Mills, McClintock "propositioned" McDermott and told him that authorities were not after him, but wanted to "get" Mazer and Rudner.

"You wouldn't want me to frame them?" Pat is alleged to have asked.

"Well, not exactly that, but we do want you to confess so we can get the goods on these fellows and there will be a reward in it for you," McClintock, according to Mills, replied.

The conversation during those conferences will be brought out in the testimony of McDermott when he takes the stand in his own defense, Mills said.

It was confidently predicted that when McDermott goes on trial, he will have an imposing array of the best northern Ohio legal talent.

MARSHALL FINED $300 ON CHARGE OF POSSESSION

Pleads Guilty After Police Discover Apparatus and Quantity of Liquor

G. C. Marshall, arrested at his automobile battery station, 121 Mill-st, Thursday afternoon on a charge of illegal possession of liquor, pleaded guilty when arraigned before Mayor Earl M. Hazen, Friday afternoon, and was fined $300. He paid and was released.

The arrest of Marshall was accomplished by Chief of Police Thompson after several raids on the battery station had failed to disclose any evidence of liquor. It developed that Marshall had been able to cover up evidence of dry law violations through the operation of a clever mechanical device used to destroy the liquor whenever raiders put in their appearance. By operating this device, the liquor was dumped through a trap-door opening into a tank of acid located in a rear room, the acid completely eliminating all traces of the intoxicants.

Unexpected arrival and quick action by Chief Thompson prevented Marshall from working the contraption, which was the product of his inventive genius. Marshall's mechanical device, believed to be the only one of its kind ever used to cover up bootlegging operations, was confiscated by Chief Thompson and is now at his office.

HUNT ONLY 366 AHEAD IN GUBERNATORIAL RACE

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 6—With but four more precincts to be heard from, Gov. Hunt tday was leading his Republican opponent, E. S. Clark, by 366 votes. Clark refuses to concede the re-election of Hunt.

Because of the closeness of the race and charges of ballot box stuffing in two counties, a recount or contest loomed today, according to rumors.

The local veterans boarded the special train for Columbus today and will return tonight on the same special. The train operates from Toledo to Columbus.

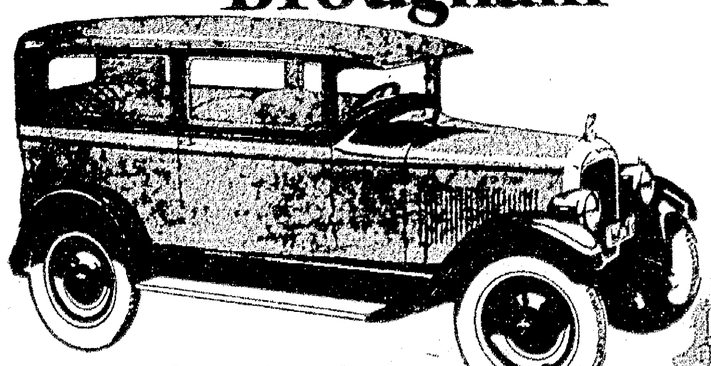
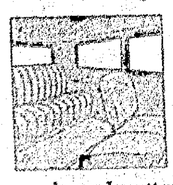
This New Jewett Brougham



is a Style Car, too!



FORTUNATE, indeed, are those who prefer the 2-door enclosed car! For in this beautiful new Jewett Brougham they can obtain the smartness and luxury and custom-exclusiveness of Paige built cars—at a cost no higher than they would expect to pay for only an ordinary car.

Much of the charm of this Brougham is due to its exceptional roominess—its extra wide doors—its inviting rear seat—to the comfortable chair seats in front, adjustable to the driver's size—to the smart and tasteful trimming.

This new Brougham is powered with a larger Jewett motor. It retains all of Jewett's remarkable ease of handling, quick acceleration and complete reliability. It retains, of course, the perfected Paige-Hydraulic 4-Wheel brakes. But it adds to these features a new smartness and style that you simply must see to appreciate. Come in—a demonstration entails no obligation.

There are in the charming new Paige and Jewett line, fourteen body types and color combinations (style leaders every one!) at factory list prices ranging from $1195 to $2245.

Recognizing the inevitable and unpleasant fate of actors and actresses who lose their ... silhouettes, several producers have inserted "weight clauses" in contracts. Anna Q. Nilsson, one of the heaviest leading women on the screen, weighs 132 pounds. Her maximum is 142.

Billie Dove, whose work as leading lady for Douglas Fairbanks and Francis X. Bushman, earned her a First National contract, must keep under 122 pounds. She now weighs 115.

Lenore Joy and Jetta Goudal both ... 119 pounds would "kill" their contract with Cecil B. DeMille if they lost their "attractive figures." Jacqueline Logan, playing the role of Mary Magdalene in the film story of the life of Christ, weighs 115; Vera Reynolds, 104; Marie Prevost 111, and Priscilla Dean 125.

The average weight of motion picture actresses, playing romantic parts, is therefore approximately 119 pounds.

AMENDMENT DEFEAT NOT DISHEARTENING, CLAIM

Joint Statement Issued Indicating Fight Has Just Started

Columbus, O., Nov. 6. Declaring that defeat of the amendment to modify the compulsory primary in Ohio is far from disheartening, Charles L. Knight, H. H. Timken, Robert A. Taft, Harry L. Davis, and Louis H. Brush, in a joint statement indicated that the fight "has just started."

"The result of Tuesday's election upon the proposed constitutional amendment eliminating the compulsory primary from Ohio's basic law and placing the responsibility for providing a method of nomination of election officials in the hands of the legislature, is in no degree disheartening to this committee," the joint statement declared.

"The fight for the adoption of this principle has just started, the final result inevitable. Its acceptance could not be rejected upon its first attempt, eventually it must carry.

"We feel we have accomplish much good and that we have made a step in the right direction. It has been gratifying to us to see the support that has been given the movement by outstanding Democrats such as Newton D. Baker, of Cleveland and former Chief Justice Hugh L. Nichols, of Batavia, who declared that 'the primary is wrecking the Democratic party.'

"We are confident of the ultimate success of the proposal which will go a long way toward restoring party responsibility and helping Ohio get the caliber of candidates for elective office which it so badly needs."

Republicans Face Loss of Senate Control in New Congress

INDECISION OF FRAZIER STIRS PARTY LEADERS

Dakota Insurgent with Democrats G. O. P. Is Lost

If Frazier and ... Shipstead, of Minnesota, walk ... of the room or vote independently ... matter what happens to Vare and Smith — the Republicans and Democrats will have to divide all chairmanships and the rest of the glory. And Shipstead recently was memoralized by the farmer-labor party to vote Democratic in the future, thus adding to the peril.

Frazier Talks

Here is what Frazier had to say of his future conduct:

"I think I'm a Republican. I was elected as a Republican. But the Republican party in the senate robbed me of my committee assignments, took away by seniority rights and told the world that I was not a Republican. They did this by a formal vote of the Republican caucus and confirmed this by a record vote of the senate. The way I vote on organizing the senate will depend entirely upon developments between now and March 4. I haven't made up my mind as yet."

Incidentally, there would be no such threat to republican prestige if republican leaders, headed by William M. Butler, late senator from Massachusetts, by Hanford McNider, assistant secretary of war, had not helped seat Daniel F. Steck, a democrat from Iowa, while ousting Senator Smith W. Brookhart, a nominal republican, last June. With Brookhart in and Steck out, republicans would have nominal control no matter what Frazier decided to do. Thus another "chicken comes home to roost."

Making peace with Frazier may be a difficult matter, too. When ousted from the republican party, along with Brookhart, the late Robert M. LaFollette and the late Edwin F. Ladd, Frazier lost a number of choice committee assignments. In fact, if he had retained his seniority rights he would be chairman of the Indiana affairs committee in the next senate, a position of tremendous importance to the middle distant west. And Frazier may well demand that chairmanship, all of his committee assignment, a vote of vindication by the republican caucus and a vote of apology.

Another Record Broken

During the week ending September 4, 1926, the railroads of the United States loaded and moved 1,151,316 freight cars.

If set end to end, the cars loaded in that week—the record week in the history of the railroads up to that time—would entirely encircle the United States and go one-fifth of the distance around a second time.

Extended, these cars would form a train 9,855 miles long.

This record freight movement was handled without car shortage.

Five years ago the loading of a million freight cars in a single week was a record-breaking performance. For the first eight months of 1926 loadings averaged close to one million cars a week.

Of the million cars loaded each week by the railroads of the United States, the Chesapeake and Ohio and Hocking Valley Railways have loaded on an average more than 29,000 cars. These roads for the first eight months of this year exceeded by more than 100,000 the number of cars loaded in the same length of time last year.

The steady movement of this enormous volume of freight speaks for itself as to the part played by the railroads in the business stability of this country.

principles. I believe that there is no limit to human endurance, where proper training rules are followed. I have always kept myself in good physical condition and am in perfect shape for the drive. Don't forget this, I am going to do it."

J. L. Price, co-principal in the argument that now has assumed serious proportions, in his statement, offered the following: "I have had 18 years driving experience and know something of the limitations of man in that particular field. The ordinary driver, using his car for pleasure purposes, finds it difficult to operate a car continuously for 12 hours. Those in business, requiring daily operation of a car usually find themselves fatigued at the end of a hard day's driving. It might be possible for a man to operate a machine without shifts for 48 hours under unusual circumstances. But 110 hours, that is ridiculous, it is impossible. Bradley made the gesture of an ordinary blow hard and I caught him up on it. I intend to make this thing as easy for him as he wants it, but I intend to see that he makes good, which he won't. I'll make it just as big as possible for him—you know the saying, the bigger the better, and the harder they fall."

Arrangements for getting the drive under way were completed today. Chief of Police J. W. Thompson will handcuff "Tireless Bud" to the wheel of the Buick Standard Six shortly before nine-thirty Monday night in front of the Star office. As the hands of the courthouse clock reach the point of exactly 30 minutes past nine, Bradley will start the motor and roll away to roll, roll, roll.—How long?

Bradley says for 110 hours and maybe a couple of more for good measure. Price says not near that long. So there you are.

FRAUDULENT SCHEME DETAILS ARE REVEALED

Two Men Charged with Misuse of Mails in Indictments

Cleveland, Nov. 6—Details of a scheme by which the United Alloy Steel Co., of Canton, was to have been defrauded of huge sums, were made known here today following the return of indictments by a federal grand jury against William Hodge, an inspector for the steel organization, and Arthur R. Mason, of Cleveland. They are charged with misuse of the mails.

The two men are alleged to have formed a brokerage company here and had solicited customers through the mails, according to D. C. Vanburen, assistant United States district attorney.

The scheme was to ship first grade steel to the brokerage firm here, billed as second grade material. The product then was to be re-sold at top prices, the brokers splitting the profits.

TESTIMONY OF IMPORTANCE IS GIVEN TODAY

Evidence in Hall-Mills Case Concerns Two of Three Defendants

Courthouse, Somerville, N. J., Nov. 6—Henry L. Dickman, former state trooper, testified this afternoon in the Hall-Mills murder trial that he was given a bribe of $2,500 to leave New Jersey, after he had conducted an extensive investigation of the crime. He said the bribe was offered to him by the late Azariah Beckman, former prosecutor of Somerset County.

Courthouse, Somerville, N. J., Nov. 6—Important testimony dealing with two of the three defendants in the Hall-Mills murder trial was given from the witness stand today.

This evidence was:

First—Mrs. Anna Bearman, friend and neighbor of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, one of the defendants, testified that several days after the slaying of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and his beautiful young choir singer, Mrs. Eleanor Mills on the night of Sept. 14, 1922, Mrs. Hall asked her to take her coat and send it away to be dyed.

Second—Henry L. Dickman, former state trooper, who four years ago conducted an exhaustive investigation of the slaying and whom the state intimates was bribed to "disappear," testified that Henry Stevens, another of the defendants, had told him in response to a question if he ever used either a .32 or a .38 caliber pistol, that he had used both types of guns at various times. Stevens is an expert marksman. The slaying, it is believed, was done with a .32 caliber pistol.

Prosecutor Alexander Simpson, dominant figure in the Hall-Mills murder trial, today faced a dilemma, the fact that the state's star witness, Mrs. Jane Gibson, the "pig woman," is so seriously ill that she may not be able to testify in court for weeks.

He wanted to get the "pig woman's" testimony into the records ever so badly "before the hand of death might aid in the miscarriage of justice." Her story is vital to his case. But the two presiding judges wouldn't sign a warrant forcing the doctors at Somerset Hospital to bring the woman to the courtroom, neither would they transfer the trial from the courthouse to the hospital in order that her testimony could be obtained.

"Mrs. Gibson is suffering from an acute infection of the left kidney and the kidney pelvis," said an official statement issued by the doctors. "She is in no immediate danger of death, however."

Frank Phillips of 805 S. Prospect-st, a member of the board.

Mr. Mouser stated today that report of the board's resolution in Friday's paper brought him his first news of the proceeding and that he had been totally unaware of any such action being contemplated. He immediately notified Mrs. Phillips, as a representative of the board, that city officials are without authority to act against the Erie.

In bringing the matter before the Health Board, Mrs. Phillips reported that smoke and soot coming from the Pollak plant had made living conditions almost unbearable in the section of the city where she resides and that it has resulted in large depreciation of property values.

Just what procedure will be followed by the Board of Health has not been decided, members stated today. Mrs. Phillips says that a petition protesting against the smoke situation may be circulated and presented to the Pollak Co. along with a copy of the board's resolution.

"It is not my desire nor that of the Board of Health to antagonize the Pollak Steel Co. nor hamper its operations. We are merely striving to remedy a condition which we believe to be damaging to Marion's welfare," she stated today.

fact that the solicitor's duties are now of such extent that his time is fully occupied, it is regarded as practically certain that an assistant will be appointed to help handle the additional duties resulting from operation of the municipal court.

Most of these appointments are likely to be made within the next two weeks, it was stated at the city offices today. In order to keep court expenses at the lowest possible figure, there is likelihood that a member of the police department will be designated as court bailiff in criminal cases.

Mr. Martin will also be consulted in regard to arrangement of the Municipal court quarters on the first floor of the Eagles building on W. Center-st. Tentative blue-prints have been drawn up by architects employed by City Council and definite decision on the plans is expected within the next two weeks.

Few Changes Likely

Only a few minor changes are likely in connection with the plans now drawn up. It has been decided that all municipal offices with the exception of police headquarters will be moved to the second floor of the Eagles Building, leaving the entire first floor for the police department, city prison and quarters for the court. The city prison is to be enlarged by the addition of at least five cells to the five now in use. Included in the additional cells will be two which are to be used for housing women prisoners. A women's section is required by state law and this provision has never been complied with in Marion.

Most of the space on the second floor where the city offices are to be moved is now occupied by offices of the C. D. & M. Electric Light & Power Co. Moving of the C. D. & M. offices to their new location in the Marion building on S. Main-st is expected to start soon and will be completed by Thanksgiving day, it is announced. This will allow ample time for the Eagles Holding Co. to complete its remodelling program before the date set for moving the city offices and opening of the new court.

Comparatively few changes will be necessary on the second floor, it is stated, but the first floor plans will be almost entirely revised.

HOG CHOLERA EPIDEMIC GRADUALLY SUBSIDING

Gruber Believes All Traces of Scourge Will Be Eliminated During Winter

The hog cholera epidemic which has been spreading throughout Marion County and other Ohio localities for several months, is gradually subsiding, according to reports coming in to Dr. J. T. Gruber, city milk and meat inspector, who believes that practically all traces of the scourge will be eliminated before the close of winter.

While the supply of serum needed to combat the disease is not large enough to completely supply the demand in Marion County, it is on the increase and is now sufficient to serve as a partial check to the epidemic.

Serum producing stations in the state have been putting forth special efforts to meet the emergency and have finally succeeded in providing effective relief.

TEDIOUS LEGAL BATTLE LOOMS IN OIL CASES

Sinclair Takes Second of Three Issues to Supreme Court

Washington, Nov. 6—After a week of skirmishing by lawyers, the end of the famous oil scandal cases appeared today to be far off. The intention of the principals to fight virtually every move of the government to the last technical refuge in the Supreme Court was indicated by their legal maneuvers.

Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire oil magnate, who was indicted with former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall on charges of conspiring to defraud the government in the Teapot Dome deal, has taken the second of three cases involving him to the Supreme Court.

Despite the fact that Fall and Edward L. Doheny, head of the American Petroleum Co., are scheduled to face trial in the criminal court here on Nov. 22 on another conspiracy charge growing out of the Elk Hills, Calif., naval oil reserve lease, there was also a possibility today that this case will be delayed another year.

Attorneys for ex-Secretary Fall may seek delay through a challenge to the authority of congress to name special prosecutors.

The Supreme Court now has before it a civil suit involving the legality of the Doheny lease on the Elk Hills reserve. A similar suit to cancel the lease of Harry F. Sinclair's Mammoth Oil Co. on Teapot Dome has just reached the high court on a petition for review.

Sinclair's latest move is to take into the high court an appeal from the District of Columbia Circuit Court of Appeals dismissing his special appeal to that tribunal.

Another case which the oil magnate is fighting is a citation for contempt in refusing to answer questions of a senate committee. This case has been virtually in suspension for many months awaiting a high court ruling in the Mal S. Daugherty case.

The civil suits have already run the gauntlet of the federal district courts and circuit courts of appeals.

The government has charged in its suits that the alleged conspiracy to gain huge profits from the oil on naval reserves had its real inception in the passage of the leasing act of 1920. It is possible that years may elapse before the last legal battle based on the alleged conspiracy has been decided.

Daily Proverb: "Prosperity is not without many years and distress and adversity is not without comfort and hope."

The Hall-Mills matter having been tried in all its details in the newspapers, the court trial is proving somewhat dull.

Possibly the greatest drawback about these perfect girl contests is that dispositions do not figure in the ratings.

The quick getaway effected by Mars may have been due to his fear of being subpoenaed as a witness in that De Russo lane affair.

The scientists say that the moon has been wobbling in recent years. What! Can the bootleggers have extended their business like that?

Among the humorists attracting present-day attention is the fellow who proclaimed that turkeys are plentiful this fall and that the prices for Thanksgiving birds will be low.

A California preacher says it is not necessarily a crime to be rich. There can no longer be question of the growing liberality of belief of the church.

It seems to us that one embarrassing phase of employment as a writer on a Cincinnati paper would be the necessity for writing alibis after each election for the Hamilton county practice of stabbing candidates in the back.

The Cleveland Times suggests that marines be sent to Chicago, but offers nothing to explain its feeling toward the marines.

One thing to be said for the statistics collected while the census takers are counting noses; by the time they reach the public they are always thoroughly seasoned by time.

While it would prove a departure from precedence, there's absolutely no law to prevent Mr. Coolidge adding a postscript to that Thanksgiving proclamation.

Knowing that the cancellation of any debt owed by Europe to Uncle Sam will by just as much as the size of the debt enhance the value of the European securities they hold, the big banking interests naturally are enthusiastic for debt cancellation.

The Washington Star says "no one ever heard of Henry Ford being arrested for speeding or obstructing traffic." True. Very true. But what of it? Henry may not have much respect for history, but that doesn't signify that he's short on grey matter or lost to the common courtesies of life.

To Treat Our Boys Royally.

There is a movement afoot in France, inspired by the French Poilus' organization, to induce the people of France to throw open their homes to the members of the American legion when they go to France for their annual convention next year and give them a reception similar to that given the American troops by the Germans when our boys entered the Rhineland after the signing of the armistice. A Paris cable says pressure is being brought to bear to cause the people of France to take the former soldiers into their family circles and make them comfortable without money and without price.

Jacques Pericard, representing the French organization, has issued a call to 10,000 families of former French veterans for the housing of delegates to the convention.

"Repeatedly the American legion has shown that it preserves in the hearts of American veterans their comradeship for the French," M. Pericard says in his call. "How can we better show our gratitude for the legion's friendship than by opening our homes to them?"

It is pointed out that the guest rooms refurnished and in many instances supplied with baths in anticipation of thousands of visitors at the Olympic games can be proffered the men of the legion.

Official France is said to be committed to a program which will prevent profiteering by petty tradespeople and hotels, of which there was so much complaint by the American soldiers during the war and that the best influences of France have been at work ever since the return from the convention of the envoy of France, Colonel Picot, to make the stay of the former soldier boys in France such as will warm their hearts and cause them to forget utterly the demonstrations which came near to causing a change of the place for the holding of the 1927 convention.

This is as it should be, and we are happy at making reference to it. There should be the kindliest feeling among the soldiery that fought as one, and we hope that the legion men will come back with the greatest good will toward their hosts.

And above all things, we hope that the French government will have the good sense not to let even so much as a suspicion arise through any act upon its part that it has a desire to take advantage of any impression that may be made on our veterans to influence this country in its financial dealings with France. The French government is neither the French nor can for the French people. It might make a mistake of that kind.

The Impulse To Jump.

Some up the lakes, some years ago, a number of a party of Marion people asked the make of the engineer what was the reason for fencing off eight or ten feet of the extreme end of the dock with a double railing. The man's answer was that the railing was a precautionary measure to keep people from jumping over the steep railing at the stern of the boat and bringing on the impulse to commit suicide by jumping overboard. Now it so happened that two members of the party had experienced that feeling when looking down into rushing water and spoke of it. Whereupon the mate stated that there were perhaps thousands upon thousands of people who would not go to sea for fear of the effect upon them of the water apparently rushing past them as the vessel speeded upon its way.

Some people are that way, people who are otherwise perfectly normal. Some people are immune to the effect of rushing water and yet experience the sensation to jump as a result of other causes. Some people can not stand upon a railroad platform or a railway crossing close to a fast-moving train without feeling an impulse to jump or plunge upon the track. Some people can sit in a second-story window all day and feel not the slightest impulse to jump, but move them upward to an eighth or tenth floor and they can not even lean over the window sill and look down without feeling this impulse to jump, and move them five or ten stories higher and they can not look out of the window at the street below without experiencing the same impulse. This doesn't have to be proved. Hundreds, yes thousands, will admit it. We have personally heard dozens of people speak of their "flight-headedness" under such circumstances. We personally know many who will not submit themselves to this feeling caused by height. It is recognition of this feeling in people which has caused the screening of many towers and lookouts from which there is a sheer drop to the pavement or ground below.

Thursday's Chicago Tribune told of a Cleveland woman who had "leaped or fell" from a window on the fourteenth floor of a hotel in that city. The story said it was probably a case of suicide. It may have been. And again it may have been another case of this impulse to jump which was too strong for her to overcome.

Wednesday's New York Times told of the death of a woman from Brookline, Massachusetts, who had been instantly killed the morning before "when she fell or jumped from the sixteenth story" of a hotel in that city. The item stated that her death was the fifth of the kind in New York City within a week. Now the phase of each of the five cases which may throw light on these deaths. All of those who thus met death came from comparatively small cities or towns where there are no buildings for human occupancy of the heights of the rooms assigned to them in the New York hotels. It is just as reasonable to assume that they were unprepared for such heights and felt this impulse to jump of which we have spoken as that they went to New York for the purpose of committing suicide by throwing themselves out of hotel windows.

All our big cities are building higher and higher. An eighty-four-story building is on the way to construction in Detroit and New York City is talking of 100-story buildings. While building heights are going upward, may it not be well to consider the problem which is being presented all over the country, for such cases as herein cited are not peculiar to Chicago and New York, by people who are meeting death by leaping from high hotel windows? Might it not be well to screen the lower halves of hotel windows on the higher floors, especially as since the present-day architecture leans toward window frames so little elevated above the floor?

A Washington despatch says the president took the results of the election calmly, which is our idea of a mighty conservative statement of the case.

Europe will hate us unless we cancel the debts she owes us, and in that event she will despise us as we should be despised for attempting to buy her good will. We have an excellent opportunity to retain our self-respect by letting well enough alone.

The returns from all parts of the state being in, it is fairly safe to say that "pointing with pride" and "viewing with alarm" ran a neck-and-neck race.

Unless it can be established that the two revolvers and several packages of cartridges thrown over The Tombs wall by a Brooklyn fish-monger had legs, the suspicions is liable to arise that one or more of the prison guards eased their way to the three thugs who are dead as a result of their attempt to escape.

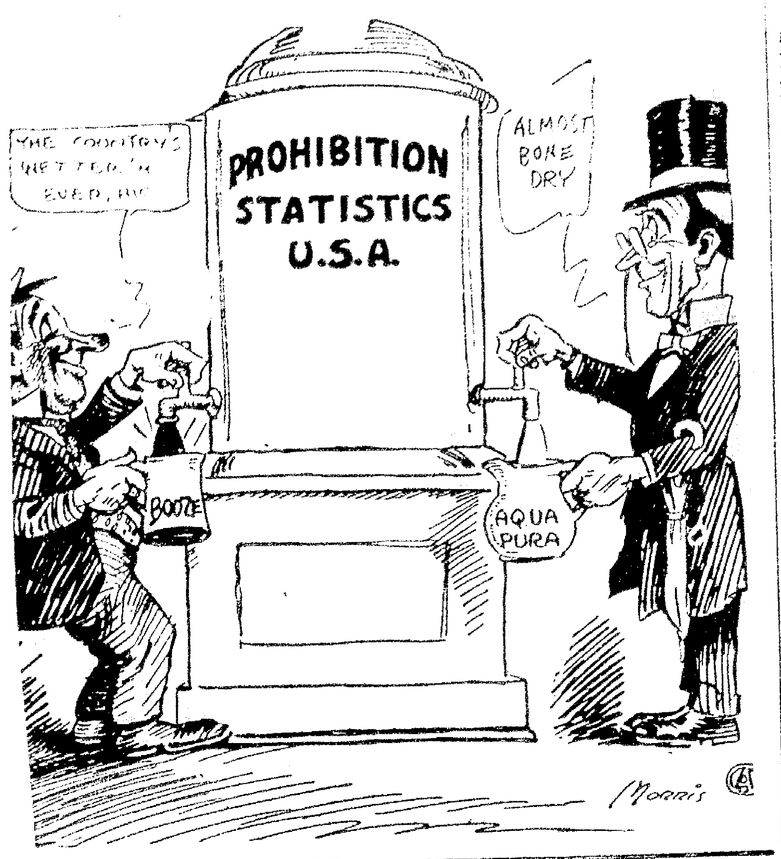
United States bankers have just made a $50,000,000 loan to Belgium. And here we have been thinking all along that Sweden was throwing that royal wedding party!

Emma Goldman is said to be a greatly-changed woman, but the story about her neglected to state whether the change effected by the passing years and her experiences over in Russia is sufficiently marked to indicate that she has revised her ideas on the subject of bathing.

It's a bit hard for the average man to understand why so many who avowedly are ministers of God are so insistent that this government recognize soviet Russia which denies God and His teachings.

The state department has refused the Bolsheviki woman minister to Mexico permission to enter the United States. That shook the reader will soon hear will be the composite chort of the Bolsheviki agents over here, the I. W. W., the communists, the parlor pinks, the internationalists, the pacifiists, the Civil Liberties union, of New York, and that shining light of the Young Men's Christian association, Mr. Sherwood Eddy.

YOU PAY YOUR MONEY, AND TAKE YOUR CHOICE.



Life Opens Slowly to Baby's Senses.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

A new-born baby is like a prize-package made up of a lot of specially wrapped articles. There is a certain mystery about the whole package, but each individual item must be investigated in order to know all about the precious gift.

We talk about the special senses—hearing, seeing, smelling, tasting and feeling. How much are these developed in a new-born babe?

Sight and hearing and the sense of smell are highly developed in grown-ups, but they are hardly present in an infant just born. It takes time for them to become powerful faculties.

For instance, let us consider the hearing power. A new-born babe is practically deaf. There is more or less swelling of the membranes and the tube which takes the air to the middle ear is not yet opened. But within a week or so of birth the hearing is established. It is not long after that before noises are offensive and disturbing to the baby.

The sight of a new-born babe is decidedly defective. Each eye is too short to permit the rays of light to focus as they should. In consequence the vision is blurred.

The muscles of the little eyes are weak and uncertain. The result is the eyes are crossed and the mother is worried over it. There is no occasion for alarm. As the child grows the eyes grow larger and stronger. The sight becomes better and better and the muscles get balanced. The cross-eyed condition disappears and the eyes are straight and beautiful.

The sense of smell is slow in its development. It is months and perhaps a year before the child becomes conscious of odors.

Touch and taste are two senses which seem well established at birth. The prick of a pin will cause pain and crying, and flavors of food appear to be recognized in very early life.

Babies differ a lot in their powers of speech. Some children do not talk till they are three or four years old. I know a woman who talks all the time now who never said a world till she was six.

By the time the baby is a year old it is probable he will say a few words. In another year he masters a simple sentence.

Locomotion is another important power possessed by human beings. A baby can hold up her head at about four months of age and may sit up by herself at six months.

The mouth of a little baby seems to be the centre of gravity. Everything goes into it after the age of five or six months.

Creeping begins at nine months and walking without assistance is accomplished by the end of the first year. This is the usual rule, but lots of babies do not walk till they are eighteen months or two years old. There is no hurry about it. The bones must be well developed and strong, or harm is done by too early walking.

The first teeth appear at the age of six or eight months. The two lower teeth in the front of the jaw are the pioneers. The two immediately over them come after two months and one on each side of them will appear about the same time. Then the two below the last two will be cut within the first year, making eight in all at the age of a year or a little more.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Perhaps electricity is what the world needs. Harold Copeland, distinguished British visitor, says women will become more useful citizens when their homes are more completely electrified. Let a woman do a greater part of her housework by pressing an electric button, and she will have time to devote to her own intellectual development.

There is no standard of value. There is no such thing as determining what something isn't worth. It all depends on the degree of your desire. An American art collector is said to have offered more than $1,000,000 for a picture of the Madonna, by Holbein, hanging in a Swiss gallery. To the writer of this paragraph or to you who read it the picture is not worth $1,000,000. To one of us it may be worth $100, to another $1,000, and to another $25. Don't let any one scare you out of buying a picture for which you are asked to pay $100 or $1,000. You, and nobody else, can be the judge of values. And so with dogs and automobiles and tennis racquets, as well as pictures, you and you alone can fix the value.

Don't let anybody else make up your mind for you.

Dr. Henry Van Dyke, of Princeton, bears out a reputation for thinking pretty clearly about life. These words of his, spoken this week, are especially significant in light of the fact that he is a preacher as well as a teacher:

"Men of science are helping more than men of theology to bring about a recognition of God in his universe and to stabilize our wobbly times.

"This age is afflicted with spiritual unrest, hysteria, an dgeneral wobbliness, because we have learned a lot about the world, but have not made a corresponding advance in how to use this knowledge without abusing it. It is a time of high velocity, value direction and unreliable control, producing mental agitation and sometimes spiritual collapse."

The University of Wisconsin is doing a big piece of work in carrying its opportunities to every crossroads hamlet and isolated farm house in its territory. Is there anything more important than university extension work? Thousands of boys and girls who will never have the chance to go to college have just as good or better minds than thousands who do have that chance. There is no such thing as equality of opportunity, though we strive for that ideal in America. In our constant effort to approach it, we can do no better than bring the opportunities of education to those who can not go where those opportunities are set up.

Our principal concern should not be as to how people vote. Our principal concern is to get them to vote at all. Get more people interested in government and we need not fear for the result of that interest.

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS

One of the fellows that's got my sympathy is the dentist, because he don't make friends very easy. Nobody likes a guy that pokes holes in his teeth and then charges him for filling them up. And it's awful hard to hold a high regard for a fellow that's drilling into your nerves or prying your mouth open so he can get several dollars' worth of junk into it. Well, it was a dentist that told me this one on a dentist, so I guess it will be all right to repeat it, although the dentist has got enough to contend with already.

A dentist says to his partner: "Did you get cash from that last customer?"

"You bet."

"How much did you charge him?"

"Eighteen dollars and seventy-three cents."

"Eighteen seventy-three? That's a queer kind of a charge. That guy'll think there's something phoney about this joint."

"Well, he'll have nothing on me. I know he's phoney."

"But tell me this. Why didn't you make it twenty dollars, or nineteen, anyhow?"

"Best reason in the world. Eighteen seventy-three was all he had."—Copyright, 1926.

Vagrant Verse.

A LORELEI GROWN GRAY.

Not on some wave-washed rock like Lorelei of old,
Combing gold locks with still more golden comb,
But standing in a window's opening,
Defiantly against the inner gloom,
Combing gray locks with broken comb, she stood,
A Lorelei grown gray.

She never turned to watch the passers-by
Who came and went along the narrow street,
But, framed within her sashless window, stood
Like some grand dame hung on a salon wall
Who turns a haughty profile to the world.

An upper room in a decaying house,
Left stranded on the outskirts of the town
By the departed tide of city life,
Was her abode.
The feet of men went ever to and fro.
But no man stopped to listen to her song.

Yet scornful, both of men and time, she stood
Within the sashless window of her room,
Combing her gray locks with her broken comb,
And those whose curious glances chanced her way
Knew not, that fleeting moment, they had seen
A Lorelei grown gray.

It is conjectural that originally three flat yellow effigies of bezants, or gold coins, laid heraldically upon a sable field were used. Later they were converted into balls so as to attract more attention.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Nov. 6 — The nouveaux riches of Old New York of the brownstone fronts and broughams offers them a smile of disdain. Despite their millions they can not make the social grade. The Four Hundred remains the Four Hundred.

Old-timers whose grandsires started their fortunes peddling polecat skins refuse to mingle with moderns who began as puddlers. With great wealth in New York there is almost invariably the urge for social recognition.

Millions are scattered here and abroad to fuse new blood with the aristocratic old. It does not mix. It merely congeals. The conquests are sometimes amusing and often ridiculous. Newly rich prepare their campaigns as carefully as a general prepares his battle.

They open town houses, Long Island estates, villas at Newport and Palm Beach, and chateaux in France. Daughters are sent to the finest finishing schools and sons to Europe to acquire broad accents and monocles. The effect is the squirrel in the revolving cage.

Expert press agents are employed to keep up an incessant mimeograph barrage. Boxes at the opera and theater. Diamond tiaras. Private dining-rooms with gold service and costly monogramed favors. Fresh gowns and millinery for every hour in the day.

And the net result is speaking acquaintance with those near-society wastrels who accept free food, gifts and week-end hospitality with a laugh in their sleeves. The thinning old guard remains adamant and superlorly snobbish.

Without the nouveaux riche — who are usually nice people with foolish ambitions—Manhattan would not be able to maintain its luxurious apartment houses, magnificent cafes, $12-a-seat theaters, swank jewelry shops and the like, for the old blue bloods as a class are impoverished. They live in reflected glory of days that were.

Who's Who and Why.

W. SOMERSET MAUGHAM.

A quiet, unassuming, middle-aged man who writes plays with the insight of a physician into the minds and hearts of folks is W. Somerset Maugham, English surgeon now in this country for the premier of his play, "The Constant Wife," with Ethel Barrymore in the leading role.

When Maugham was a young man his parents insisted that he study medicine instead of dabbling in writing. To please them he attended King's school, Canterbury, and Heidelburg university, Germany, then he went back to London to be graduated in surgery from St. Thomas' hospital.

He began to practice as a surgeon, yet through his years of medical study he had not lost sight of his ambition to write.

Then came the war and Dr. Maugham enlisted in the medical corps. He soon learned that his services were of more value in the secret service. It was there he collected much of the material which he plans to use in short stories and plays this year.

Becoming ill in 1916 he set out for the South seas and it was on this voyage that he met the missionary, the girl whom he called Sadie Thompson and the other persons whom he later put into his story, "Miss Sadie Thompson," produced as the play "Rain."

It was back in 1900 that his stories first began to be accepted. Then two or three plays were bought by producers. In 1907 his "Lady Frederick" opened with Ethel Barrymore in the leading role and was a success.

He has given up his medical practice to devote himself to writing.

Among the best known of many novels are "Of Human Bondage" and "The Moon and the Sixpense." Of his plays, "The Circle," "Our Betters," and "East of Suez" are most familiar in this country. His "Caesar's Wife" was made into a movie some months ago and released under the title, "Infatuation."

A notable example was recovery of the Bradley Grocery Co's truck used by burglars in hauling away several hundred cartons of cigarets taken from the company's store. The truck was found near Circleville as a result of a search conducted by automobile club officials.

Thieves Organized

The present day automobile thief operates on a well organized business basis, insurance men say. The professionals carry on their trade systematically with headquarters usually in the larger cities. Agents are sent out to steal and bring in cars, frequently extending their activities to points at a great distance from the seat of operations. Several cars stolen in Marion some time ago, for instance, were eventually recovered at a city located on the Ohio river, where a band of thieves had its headquarters.

One of the most extensive organization of thieves uncovered recently was rounded up in Chicago, where it was found that a large, modern equipped garage, surpassing any in Marion in both size and facilities, was used exclusively for storage of stolen machines. At this garage were found some of the most costly makes of machine, some of which had been stolen at points several hundred miles from Chicago.

Work With Police

To combat this situation, the large insurance companies employ special officers who are on duty throughout Ohio and other states, working in conjunction with police authorities and automobile club officials. These officers are frequently in Marion investigating thefts and otherwise safeguarding the interests of car owners.

Liability insurance is one of the most important features of protection for both autoists and pedestrians, insurance agents spy. Due to the fact that many car owners do not carry insurance of this class, it is predicted that it will be made compulsory through action of the state legislature, possibly at the next session. An effort to enact a proposal of that kind in the last General Assembly failed, although many legislators favored it.

Forty per cent of automobile owners in Marion do not carry fire or theft insurance and 60 per cent are without liability insurance, local agents say. It is stated also, that a large number are absolutely without insurance of any kind.

It is maintained by many insurance agents and public officials that liability insurance should be made compulsory for the protection of the general public. Many autos are being driven by persons of practically no financial standing and from whom there could be no recovery for damages in case of an accident. Compulsory insurance is of vital importance because of this situation, advocates of the plan say.

MONNETTE MAN MEETS INSTANT, TRAGIC DEATH

Body Whirled on Rapidly Revolving Shaft for Several Minutes

Bryan, Nov. 6. Fyler Lane, 28 ... employed as ... Local Elevator ... rapidly revolving shaft at the Monnette grain elevator at Monnette today.

At a terrific speed his body was wrapped around the shaft and whirled within a space of not more than two feet on each side of the shaft. His head and feet beating with each revolution against the roof and a granary. His limbs were literally chewed to pieces below the hips and other parts of his body badly mangled. His skull was fractured and his back broken.

Hans was alone at the time of the accident and it is not known how he became tangled in the shaft, which was situated seven feet from the floor. It is possible that a small protruding bolt on the shaft caught his clothing as he climbed near it to look in the granary. It is unknown how long his body whirled on the shaft before being discovered by Manager Lapley of the elevator.

Lapley's attention was drawn to the accident by the sound of the body hitting against the wall. He stopped the engine and started an investigation. The body was so tightly wrapped about the shaft that difficulties were encountered in releasing it. Coroner M. I. Helfrich pronounced death due to accidental cause.

Hans was married and resided in Monnette. He is survived by the widow and a five-year old son. One brother resides at Bucyrus and another at Crestline. He was the son of William Hans of Caledonia.

DOVE OF PEACE HOLDS SWAY IN MARIE'S TRAIN

Diplomacy of Roumanian Queen Quiets Disturbance on Her "Kingdom on Wheels"

Aboard Queen Marie's Special Train in Washington, Nov. 6. The magnetic queen of Roumania smiled today upon the turbulent forces seeking to serve her and peace dawned over her kingdom on wheels.

Her majesty took hold of a delicate situation with the diplomacy for which she is famed. The beautiful Balkan queen let it be known that she considered recent untoward incidents aboard her trans-continental train as merely the outgrowth of a too ardent desire on the part of the combatants to represent her interests. While taking no direct side in the controversy between Sam Hill whose guest she was at the dedicatory exercises at Maryhill Museum, and Major Stanley Washburn, her aide and advisor, Queen Marie called both her friends and bit the hatchet be buried.

It is felt in royal circles that the "white hope," as the queen sometimes calls Sam Hill, has had his "big moment" in the matter of the queen's blessing bestowed upon his museum and will beg to be excused when the royal train reaches Seattle this afternoon.

Would Change Plans

However, the Quixotic millionaire is known to have expressed a wish that he could alter his personal plans so as to accompany the party to Chicago.

Above the cooing of the dove of peace, echoes of the Washburn Hill feud could still be heard. Since Hill arguing over a matter of etiquette, declared he was "the boss" and would "crank" the major if he did not leave the train, neither of the principals have spoken to each other. Hill wished to change the program today by sailing via boat from Vancouver to Seattle, but he was won over to following the schedule through Blaine when it was pointed out that his "Peace Portal" at Blaine was to be re dedicated.

This structure is surrounded by red, white and blue lights and is approximately 10 yards off the road. The queen passed it yesterday in an automobile. Sam Hill is particularly anxious for her majesty to see it.

Will Visits 101 Ranch and Sees Russian Art at Best

Ponca City Attractions Real Treat

Bros. Operate Big Farm to Lively Circus Band Tunes

By WILL ROGERS

All I know is just what I read in the Papers. But there is so little in papers that I just had to get out and do something that never was in print before. Blown, or blewn, or whatever it is into Oklahoma, the Eden on earth till something better turns up, I was privileged to prowl its vast domain and view its maricilous achievements and wonder at its unprecedented growth. Nimble with its unmatched industry. In other words it was just one of those things that is never to be forgotten experiences. You just know when you cross the line into it there is something that tells you you are in another world. Why in order to get from one town to another I had to detour through Kansas, in fact all the States adjoining Oklahoma are just used for detouring purposes. We always feel in entering Oklahoma that we are just in them temporarily till something better can be fixed up for Oklahoma. You are always glad to get back on the main highway again.

Into Ponca City

So I come into Ponca City after one of these Kansas detours. Ponca City is one of the Citys that clutter up the great commonwealth. It's where the Indian meets the rich white man and when those two ingredients get together why there is nothing but millionaires. It's right on the edge of the huge Indian reservation. It's composed of three ingredients, Miller Brothers 101 Ranch (who's headquarters is just a few miles out of Ponca City), Marland (the great Oil man), and Lew Wentz (a poor boy who loaned Oklahoma two million dollars yesterday to keep the State Farmers from giving away for nothing a half million bales of cotton to Manufacturers of all wool clothes.

But it aint of Lew or Marlin or George, or Zack or George Miller that I am telling you about, they all ought to get single Articles to themselves. After I had opened and closed my campaign in Ponca City for the buying of a King and Queen for America so it would learn us how to be sane when we do see one, why I went down to the 101 Ranch and stayed all night and we had a fine time. Pawnee Bill and his lovely wife and companion (which is a rare combination) were there and we all talked Europe and rode Bucking Horses till three-thirty in the morning right there in the big Living Room. But it is not of the size and magnitude or the hospitality of the 101 ranch that I take my Text, it is of Russian Art.

Last year Joe Miller, that's the oldest of the three brothers, conceived the idea of getting some attractions that would be in keeping with the Title of their Show, "Miller Brothers, 101 Ranch Wild West and Far East." Well outside of a gift set of Chop Sticks, a recipe for Chow Mein, a Japanese Kimona and twenty yards of old cloth that had been an East Indian's Turban, why the Ranch had nothing of a Far East atmosphere. They had some Elephants but they had all been born in Bridgeport, Conn., which was as far east as they could get in this country without slopping over into Rhode Island, and only one Elephant can slop over into Rhode Island at a time. They also had some Camels that Zack Miller had bought when Prohibition went in in 1918 to see if it really was possible for an Animal to go that long without a drink. And they stand today as being the only known things that have kept religiously the 18th Amendment. But Joe is a pretty wise Duck, he knew that it took more than Elephants and Camels and Kimonas and some Curry Powder to advertise as a Far East show.

Joe to Paris

So they decided to send Joe to Paris to get some Far East atmosphere (that was as far East as they could think of) in fact it is as far East as anybody ought to go. Joe got to Paris and started in looking for Far East attractions. In fact he didn't care much whether she was Far East, or nearby North, just so she was an attraction. Somebody told Joe that there was a terrible lot of Russians in Paris that had left Russia when they got short on holding Revolutions. There was nothing to work at. Joe says "What can they do besides revolute and drink Vodka?" "Why there is lots of Musicians, and there is lots of Cossack Riders, and Russian Dancers, they can do anything." Well Joe rounded them up and they got a tally on them, and shipped them over to America to provide atmosphere and aroma for the Far East end of the Lithographs. Joe saw them in their native costumes and he said "They will look pretty on the Billboards." Well, they not only looked pretty but they could do something.

Real Orchestras

They was just about one of the best Orchestras and Bands from a real musical standpoint that ever come to this country, and the Riders were the best bunch of Cossacks that ever spoiled the American language. In fact the Band was really too high class for Wild West atmosphere. They played so soft and melodious, and so much together that the 101 audience thought they were playing out of tune. You know when you learn anything in Russia, or pretty near all those Countries, you are supposed to learn it. You don't mark the papers and then mail them in for correction. Russians have always been a kind of a Nut on Art and Music, and all that junk anyway and these fellows were every one a finished musician. If you are learning the Fiddle in Russia you spend 10 years of the first part of your instructions in just looking and studying the Bow before they ever let you know that it is to be used in connection with a Fiddle at all. Well you can imagine the chagrin when they had to join a Wild West Circus and play Strafosskys, or Trotsky's concerto's or Preludes, for an outlawed Bucking Horse to buck by. Can you imagine Marie's Roumanian Rapshody in S Major being played for the Bulldogging. Well they just brought more Art and more Whiskers into the Wild West Business than had been there in a generation. They got through fine and constructed a Far East that saved The Miller Boys from being sued for Mass representation.

"If Winter Comes"

But Winter must come, as Winter has a way of doing, and Shows least close as it gets cooler, for it would be no pleasure to put up the Tents if it wasent hot and dusty. Now Joe has a big Bond on his bunch of Muscovites and when he is through trying to understand them, he has to deliver them safe over the three mile limit of our shores, or else agree to keep them another Year. Well these old Russian Boys dident crave going back even to Paris, so they wanted to stay, and said they would do anything to not be sent back. So all this is to plant in your mind the picture that greeted my eyes on the morning when I awoke and went out to look the ranch over.

They not only are a big Ranch but they are the bigest Farm in the West. They raise thousands and thousands of acres of winter feed for stock. They had two thousand acres alone of "Kaffir Corn." Now that is a thing that grows up and looks like Corn only no ear on it. It has to be cut and shocked up out in the field. The Band dressed as Cossacks and carried big long Russian Sabres. Joe made them sharpen them up and the old Leader Prince Barrsand-clefsky would grab off a stalk of Kaffir Corn and wave it and these Concert Musicians would charge into that corn field and start demolishing that Corn worse than they ever did one of Wagners sourkraut tunes. The leader stood in the middle of the two thousand acres and waved his corn stalk "baton" and those old Russian Boys chopped off that corn according to rythm and notes. It sho looked funny they were dressed in their Native Russian blouses, Big leg breeches, Russian Boots, Muff turned upside down on their heads for hats, Cartridge Belt highup across their Bosom. Violin Players, Cheloists, and Base Players, all used the Sabers like Bows. They sawed the corn off. Two notes to the stalk. The Horn Players blew it over, and then annihilated it. The Drummers beat it to pieces. It was the only time in my life that I thought Art had ever really reached its level. There is where this so called Art belongs, right in the Corn Field.

Joe Miller is the only man that ever was smart enough to find what to do with a Musician when he wasent Musicianing. I set there on a horse and watched them for a long time. That Kaffir Corn was running that day about two Verde Operas to the Acre. The Flute and Piaccolo Players were generally about two corn rows behind. That old Leader Barr-and-clefskay she had that old corn stalk baton a waving rhymatically. I asked Joe "What are you going to do with these old Symphony Boys when the Corn is all Played up?" Joe said, "I will let them play 'pitching hay to the Cattle,' that's a new Opera that I have composed myself." So Morris Guest and Otto Kahn is not the only ones in America that is doing something for Art. You leave it to Joe Miller and he will make the business of being a Musician play the year around. What about the Saxaphone Players that play all the Mammy Songs picking our Cotton next year. Bless the 101 Ranch for making Music practical.

Roberta Risks It

By MARGARET CAMERON

CHAPTER FORTY-FOUR

LEAVING Roberta breathless, Piggy flung out of the house and down the lane toward the village, followed by one of the detectives. Hurt and angry, he strode along into the road called by courtesy a street, too absorbed in his pain to notice the approach of the station cab—really a surrey—of the man who sprang from it at sight of him. But he was halted by a consciousness of some one directly in his path and looked up—into the wrathful face of his father.

"Well!" said Brazenose, in a curt undertone. "I thought I'd find you here."

Piggy's already blanched face turned paler.

"Dad!" he stammered, saluting with the caution that had become a habit of his masquerade. "Why—dad! What—how did you know?"

"Used my brains," snapped the author of his being. "All there are in the family, apparently. What the devil does this mean?"

"Look out," Piggy whispered, with a glance at the man behind, now drawing near. "That's a detective. Sit tight." Brazenose snorted, his flush deepening to purple, and his son continued in an audible and respectful tone: "She can't see nobody, sir. This thing has made her down sick. You're right, sir, it is a rotten shame. There's detectives an' newspaper guys thicker'n thieves all over everywhere. They even searched the house. Did you know that, sir?"

"Of course I knew it," was the sharp reply. "What do you think brought me here? I read the papers, young man."

"Yes, sir," said Piggy, as the detective strolled past, obviously taking notes of Brazenose for his mental files. "It's been sump'n fierce. Looks like it was a crime to be a stranger. Mrs. Smith thought we might stay all winter, but believe me, she's had enough! Just as soon as she's able to get up and travel, we're going to leave."

"Damn your impudence!" growled his father, when the detective had passed out of hearing and paused, leaning against a fence, to look back at them. "What do you mean by assuming that I'm interested in this woman?"

"Had to do it, dad. They're watching us like cats."

"Us? Who's 'us'? Who is this woman you're dangling after?"

"I'm not dangling after her." The color surged into Piggy's face again. "Not any!"

"Then who is she? What are you doing here—in that get-up?" An irate parental glance summed up dyed hair, pencilled brows and livery in one contemptuous sweep. "What have you done with that girl?"

"What girl?"

"Don't try that. Not with me." The low tone held dangerous inflections. "You know where Celia Scott is, and I'm going to before I've finished with you. I've come up here to get the truth and I'm going to have it."

"All right," said Piggy, after a moment. "I guess you're entitled to it. Let's walk, though, or we'll have the whole village watching us."

He turned back and into a forking road along a wooded slope where there were no houses, followed by the detective.

"Well?" Brazenose questioned sharply, when his son was silent. "If you have anything to say for yourself, out with it. First, who's this Mrs. Smith?"

"She's Scott's elder daughter, Roberta."

"She's Scott's other daughter? Well, you have distinguished yourself this time, R. K. Scott, of all men!"

"Yes, sir," Piggy answered meekly. "But I didn't know that—not at first. It happened this way."

Beginning with Nixon at the ferry, he told the story, which was punctuated by snorts, which was angry ejaculations from his father. When he repeated the narrative of the supposed Rowena Smith, concerning the imprisoned sister and the necessity of immediate rescue, Brazenose explosively cut in.

"Poppycock! Silly, romantic fools, the two of you! If Scott was really abusing this girl—which I don't for a minute believe; he's a tartar in business, but he's not a man to abuse his family. But even granting that he did, there are legal remedies the sister could have used to stop that. A writ of habeas corpus would have brought him to time a damn sight quicker and more effectively than this performance." Piggy gave him a blank stare and Brazenose senior scowled. "Didn't think of that, did you? Preferred to make a monkey of yourself—as usual. Go on."

Again, at the point of Roberta's confession that she had lied about her name and was G. A.'s daughter, he broke in.

"So you did know who she was before you left New York! Why didn't you stop then? You know what Scott means to us, and enough about his temper—"

"Yes sir, but I'd promised. Besides—" The culprit paused, feeling that mention of a good sporting proposition might be inexpedient at the moment.

"Besides what? Think you're in love with this girl, I suppose."

"I do not," was the succinct and fervent reply. "Quite the contrary. I hope to the Lord I never see or hear of her again, after we get out of this mess."

"H'm! Well?"

The tale was resumed, and when there was no allusion to the old serving woman, Brazenose once more interrupted:

"What about Janet? Don't leave her out."

Piggy, who had not seen the New York papers, stared and gulped. "Janet?"

"Janet. Don't try to flimflam me. She's in it, too—up to her neck."

"You mustn't blame her, dad," the son said earnestly. "It's my fault. I sent for her. You see I couldn't come up here alone with—with Miss Scott. She needed a woman with her. So I thought of Janet."

"And she came. The one person in the world, next to you, who owes me personal loyalty. Traitors, both of you!"

"So, sir! Janet didn't know what she was up against until she got here, and then she didn't want to stay. We—I talked her into it. She's said all the time that we'd get into trouble. It was just her devotion to us—you and me, I mean—that kept her here, and you mustn't be hard on her for that, dad."

"I don't want any suggestion from you. Confine yourself to facts. I'll deal with Janet when the time comes. Go on."

"But—"

"Go on!"

Deeply troubled by this new angle of responsibility, Piggy went on, and as the narrative proceeded the other's interjections ceased, perishing in the heat of his anger before they were uttered.

Even as Roberta had seen Percival Galahad earlier in the day, white and still and exhausted, so Piggy saw his father now, all the hideous and dead past stage of Brazenose wrath.

"So here we are," Piggy concluded

Quicksands of Love

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Told About Jack

EITHER my face is more transparent than I know, or Dicky's young niece has psychic powers. She shot a swift, keen glance at me when I did not commodately answer her laughing confession that "Paul," the admirer she had invented for the confusion of her schoolmates seemed very real to her.

"Don't you ever believe it, Auntie Madge," she said merrily.

"What?" I asked, looking up startled.

"The thing you're worried about," she returned archly.

I pulled up my defenses quickly, and made my tone as mocking as hers.

"I ought to christen you 'Sherlockia,'" I said, "for I am worried about Mr. Veritzen's reaction to your smoking, when he expressly stipulated that it was one of the things forbidden you by his regime."

I was miserably conscious that I had told but a fraction of the truth, and realized an instant later that Mary was mirthfully aware of my evasion.

Cutting Out Cigarettes

"Oh that!" she said, with an airy gesture, as if she were blowing away the white puff of a dandelion. "I'm not going to be fool enough to throw away all I've worked for just for the sake of a cig or two. I told you why I was smoking this afternoon. I didn't want Jack Leslie to think I was an independent chap, but there's no need of demonstrating a theorem to Q. E. D. more than once. So I'll cut smoking out, honor bright, Auntie Madge."

"I'm so glad Mary," I stammered, for the mirthful comprehension in her eyes disturbed me.

"But that isn't the thing I meant when I said you were worrying," she went on with a little grin. "What's eating you is the fact that you've discovered I'm an unsophisticated little worn with no 'Paul' or any other man in my young life. And you're afraid that I'm getting awfully hipped on Jack Leslie."

It was a distinct achievement to keep from flushing with Mary's bright eyes fixed upon my face, but I managed it.

Not Such a Bad Egg

"Please give me credit for ordinary insight, Mary," I said, trying to put into my voice just the right note of delicate disdain. "There are many girls who, undoubtedly would fall in love with the young man, but not one of your mentality."

"That's right!" she said, with audacity. "Sugar-coat the pill! But your insight is correct. I'm not emotionally interested in the young man at all. But I do think he isn't half as bad an egg as Dicky and you suppose. He's terribly in love with himself, of course. All handsome men are, don't you think?"

She looked up at me with so delicious an air of worldly wisdom that I laughed outright.

"I've known one or two that were unconscious of their charms," I said. "But I agree with you that Mr. Leslie knows every one of his. And it wasn't I who dubbed him the 'cooper-ing cockroach,' you know. I really know nothing concerning him save the story of his treachery to young Noel Verrizen. But your Uncle Dicky loathes him, and I rather respect his judgment where men of that type are concerned. He has better opportunities of knowing their better character than I could possibly have, and I am afraid I have imbibed his prejudice against the dancer."

LIVES ON FARM IN OKLAHOMA

Happy Woman Praises Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

In a sunny pasture in Oklahoma, a herd of sleek cows was grazing. They made a pretty picture. But the thin woman in the blue checked apron sighed as she looked at them. She was tired of cows, tired of her tedious work in the dairy. She was tired of cooking for a houseful of boarders, besides caring for her own family. The burdens of life seemed too heavy for her failing health. She had lost confidence in herself.

One day she began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and her general health began to improve. She took it faithfully. Now she can do her work without any trouble, sleeps well and is no longer blue and tired.

This woman, Mrs. Cora Short, R. R. 9, Box 396, Oklahoma City, Okla., writes: "Everybody now says: 'Mrs. Short, what are you doing to yourself?' I weigh 135 and my weight before I took it was 115. I have taken seven bottles of the Vegetable Compound."

MASTER MOTOR BUILDERS
LEADERSHIP in power plant engineering cannot be bought with money.
Packard has paid the price of supremacy in this field through twenty-six years of pioneer work—over a quarter of a century devoted to the development of specialized knowledge, experienced skill, perfected facilities.
And Packard power has been proven supreme wherever motors vie in moving men—through the air, over the road, or on the water.
At the recent National Air Races, planes powered with Packard engines won both the free-for-all Military Pursuit Ship Race—with a speed of more than 180 miles an hour—and the Trophy Race for light bombing planes—at a speed above 123 miles an hour.
Racing boats equipped with Packard engines again this year won the Gold Cup Race and the Sweepstakes Race, the two great annual marine classics.
The new Packard cars, both Six and Eight, are establishing undisputed leadership on boulevard and highway the world around. The improved Packard motors in these fine cars give a range of performance hitherto unknown.
Packard knows but one standard. Packard designs and builds with but one aim. And Packard's standing today as Master Motor Builder to the Army, the Navy and the American Public is but a measure of Packard's success in achieving that superlative perfection which is its constant goal.
Prices of the Improved Packard cars have not been increased. For example, the Packard Six five-passenger Sedan is still $2650 delivered at your door. Our payment plan makes Packard ownership surprisingly easy. May we explain it to you?

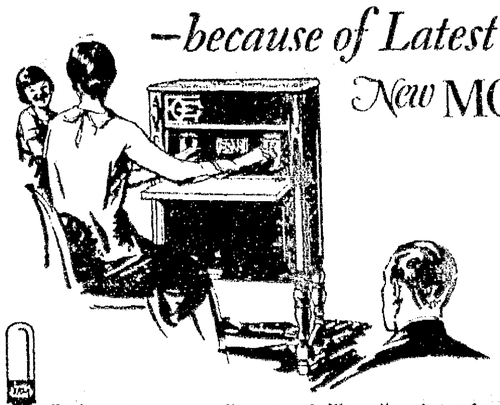
ALL— "Bring in Distance" Now —because of Latest Discovery New MO-NOD-IC Receiver



Erla Omnitonic Cone Speaker

Erla "Triple-Life" tubes, including special power tube

Perhaps—to you—radio seemed like sleight-of-hand . . . Experts pulled stations out of the air like rabbits out of a hat . . . while the best others got was squeals and howls.

"Some day" you said "Radio will be changed—so everyone can be an expert" . . . It has been . . . through an amazing discovery . . . Everyone can operate and enjoy radio now . . . Squeals and howls . . . banished. Selectivity, razor-keen. Fuzziness and distortion gone, too.

By two easy dials . . . mother, brother, little sister . . . all get distance now. The air, once so full of squeals and howls before . . . is alive with stations . . . tuned in and out at will.

This statement is startling . . . yet it is true, every word . . . you yourself can prove it . . . You should know about this new wonder of radio . . . Everyone is talking about the vital new improvements it introduces.

Scientists Discover New Principle

Scientists made a discovery. Erla engineers, collaborating with the distinguished staff of the Radio Frequency Laboratories, have done what they term "erasing regeneration" . . . the cause of squeals, howls and distortion. Manufacturers have often sought to eliminate it. But never succeeded except by sacrificing distance and volume—too great a penalty. Now regeneration is banished . . . but without loss. There is an actual gain in reception.

No wonder the new Erla (RFL) is considered a year ahead. Few now will be satisfied with old-fashioned receivers—especially when the improved Erla (RFL) may be purchased so very reasonably.

Beauty Unrivaled—Value Unapproached

Picture the Erla (RFL) DeLuxe Console in your home . . . an art object . . . a true "period" reproduction. Panels of quartered and matched burl walnut, hand rubbed after the popular "antique" manner to a warm, dull glow . . . occupying no more space than a small table or floor lamp . . . a cabinet masterpiece . . . And the value of all models . . . you will find cannot be duplicated. Manufacture under one roof accomplishes these "one-profit" benefits for you. Just for your own protection you will want to see the new Erla (RFL) first. At stores listed below or demonstrated in your own home if you desire.

After All
The True Comparison Must Be Tone

IN design, many radio instruments are somewhat similar—the final test is tone.

Appearance is important because your radio must become a part of the furnishings of your home. It must fit in—it must be attractive.

But—

The most attractive cabinet will soon become very unattractive if the tone of the radio instrument was not pleasing to the ear.

In justice to yourself, let me show up in your home. Tune it yourself. Test it for distance, ease of tuning, and—tone. It will talk for itself. You will also want to know about Ozarka Service.

NIKOLAI SOKOLOFF TO GIVE SERIES OF WINTER CONCERTS

Nikolai Sokoloff is the conductor of the famous Cleveland orchestra, which has been booked by WTAM to give a series of concerts during the winter months.

The first of the series was presented a few days ago and was received with favorable comment by radio listeners.

The programs are sponsored by the Portland Cement Co. of Cleveland.

WTAM SPECIALTY IS DEVELOPING BANJOISTS

Eddie Peabody Willard Station's Best Find; Was Struggling Along

Station WTAM at Cleveland seems to make a specialty of finding, developing and popularizing banjo players.

There was Eddie Peabody and Jack Rose and now comes Eddie Connors for radio honors.

Eddie Peabody was the Willard station's first find. He was a Cleveland boy who was struggling along, appearing here and there at entertainments and theaters.

Makes Hit

One night he was put on one of the WTAM programs and made such a hit with radio listeners he became a regular and most popular entertainer at the big Cleveland station. Eventually he went to New York and turned out a flock of records for several recording companies and then accepted a handsome contract in Los Angeles.

Jack Rose

Jack Rose was WTAM'S next popular banjo player. He suddenly appeared on the radio horizon last fall with Austin Wylie's Vocalion Recorders. Rose entertained on banjo and guitar with this orchestra between dance groups, and within the space of a few weeks became WTAM'S biggest "applause getter." Jack Rose is being heard again this fall with Austin Wylie's band on WTAM programs.

Eddie Connors is well known among Cleveland musicians but until just recently never had a good opportunity to display his talents. He recently joined Ev Jones' Merrymakers and has been heard regularly for several months with this organization of funsters at WTAM. A few weeks ago, Connors played on the WEA relay chain during a studio hour. Connors has a unique style which sounds like two banjos.

ARMISTICE DAY PROGRAMS WILL FEATURE RADIO

Special Place Given to Celebration on Bills Thursday

Armistice Day programs will feature the schedule of the radio stations of this country next Thursday.

The first reference to the day of the signing of the Armistice will be made over the radio Sunday when Dr. Daniel A. Poling will use the subject "Armistice Day—Then and Now" as the basis for his address at the Young People's Conference at Marble Collegiate Church, New York, broadcast through WEAF at 3 o'clock.

William C. Redfield, Secretary of Commerce in the cabinet of the late President Woodrow Wilson, will be the principal speaker at a radio service to be broadcast by WEAF and Associated Stations on Armistice Day, Thursday, Nov. 11, at 10 o'clock.

WGY Bills

The eve of Armistice Day will be celebrated by stations WGY, Schenectady, WJZ, New York, WBZ, Springfield, and WRC, Washington, with a program at 10 o'clock, Thursday night, Nov. 11.

The musical program for the gala occasion will be furnished by the U. S. Marine Band playing in Washington and furnished to the network of stations by WRC. Major General Charles P. Summerall and Father Francis P. Duffy will be the speakers. They will address the radio audience through WJZ's studio.

Patriotic programs and entertainment will be heard from practically every station on the air Thursday night. A survey of the programs for the coming week reveals Band music, speeches, and singing of patriotic songs composed the principal bills that night.

The two Cincinnati stations, WLW and WSAI, will be on the air with an Armistice Day program as will WTAM, Columbus. Plans of the Cleveland stations for the occasion are not yet known.

Gossip and Guesses in the World of Sport

BASEBALL Magazine has picked an all star team from each of the big leagues. Those picked from the American League were: Burns, Cleveland 1b; Collins, Chicago, 2b; Sewell, Cleveland, ss; Kamm, Chicago, 3b; Ruth, New York, Mostil, Chicago, and Manush, Detroit, outfield; Ruel Washington, c; Ehle, Cleveland, Pennock New York, Lyons, Chicago, and Grove, Philadelphia pitchers.

The all star National League team was composed of the following: Kelly, New York, 1b; Hornsby, St. Louis 2b; Bancroft, Boston ss; Traynor, Pittsburgh, 3b; Roush, Cincinnati, Cuyler, Pittsburgh, and Wilson, Chicago, outfield; Smith, Pittsburgh c; Keeper, Pittsburgh, Mays, Cincinnati; Carlson, Philadelphia, and Petty, Brooklyn, pitchers.

The writer would suggest to the baseball committee of the Marion Athletic Association that a three team tournament between these two teams and the Marion Athletics be arranged to open the season next year.

A STORY out of Columbus, which smacks very much of the press agent, tells how a Columbus banker is beating the scarcity of hotel rooms for the night before and the night after the Ohio State-Michigan game. The story has it that this man has engaged rooms for the two nights in a Columbus Hospital for friends he is expecting from out of town.

NEXT Wednesday night in Columbus, Jack Reynolds, welterweight champion of the world, will defend his title against Adam Welsmuller, brother of the world famous swimmer, Johnny. The match will be held in Memorial hall, the Chamber of Commerce auditorium not being large enough to handle the crowds which flock to matches in Columbus when a championship is at stake. This speaks well for the manner in which the game is conducted in the capital city. "Wrestle or no dough" should be the slogan of every promoter of this sport. If some more over the country would pursue the policy adopted by Al Haft, the wrestling game would come back to the place it should have in the sport world.

WILLIE RITOLA, the fleet Finnish-American runner, is still at his old tricks. The other day in New York. WHile won the A. A. U. ten-mile championship. This is his fourth win of this classic, one of the biggest amateur athletic events staged in the east.

The race was run in the face of a bitterly cold wind and Ritola was handicapped shortly after the start by a muscular cramp, but he "ran it off" and finished the ten miles in the good time of 53 minutes, 30 and 1-5 seconds.

NINE years ago today, Nov. 6, 1918, Jack Dempsey removed another obstacle from his path to a fight for the heavyweight championship by a three-round knockout of the venerable Battling Levinsky, at Philadelphia.

TO quote the sport pages of a Columbus paper, Lenglen & Co.'s professional tennis show the other night was a "flop". No doubt Suzanne could and will draw as many "customers" in vaudeville next season as she is drawing in her professional racket appearances this season.

A bit of zest is added to the Michigan-Wisconsin tilt at Ann Arbor Saturday. George Little who is successfully coaching Wisconsin, was a former assistant to "Hurry-Up" Yost at Michigan, and in 1924, Yost turned the team over to Little, acting in advisory capacity only that season. At the end of the season, Little accepted his present post at Wisconsin. Last year Yost, the teacher, beat his former pupils, Little, 21-0. This week the the pupil promises to even the score.

NOTRE DAME and Ohio State are the only college football teams in this part of the country which have not been defeated this fall. What a whale of a gate these teams would draw if a game could be arranged between them for the Saturday following the close of their regular schedules.

Seven Teams Sign To Play In Industrial League

Number in Combination is Increased When Huber Men Organize Basketball Squad

Other Entries Include Osgoods, Railway Service, C., D. & M., Fairfields, Commercial Steels and Marion Business College

SEVEN teams will be seen in action this season in the Marion Industrial Basketball League contests.

This announcement was made today following a meeting of the managers of the quintets represented in the league.

It was first announced that the league this year would accommodate only six team but with the appearance of the Huber Manufacturing Co. five, it was decided that seven teams would constitute the association.

The teams now in the league represent the Osgood Co., Huber Manufacturing Co., Railway Service, C. D., & M. Electric Co., Fairfield Engineering Co., Commercial Steel Casting Co., and Marion Business College.

The Huber men have never before been represented in the association but have organized a cage team and are all set to do battle with the best of 'em. The Fairfield Engineers started the season in the league last year but failed to finish the schedule. They are reorganized and ready to hold their own.

Shovels Out

Only one of last year's teams will be missing from the line up in the Marion Industrial League when the season opens. The Marion Steam Shovel Co will no longer be represented by a quintet in the association but will have an independent team as well as departmental aggregations.

The opening games of the league are scheduled for Monday, Nov. 29, in the Star Auditorium. It was originally planned to open the season on Monday, Nov. 22, but the hall was taken for that date. All league games will be played on Monday nights.

Each team entered in the association has the privilege of engaging two outside players who cannot be changed without being passed upon by the board of control of the league.

The board of control will consist of the managers of the various cage outfits entered in the association. Those on the board are:

League Board

J. A. Underwood, of the Huber Manufacturing Co.; R. J. Lares, of the Railway Service Co.; E. F. Hawkins, of the Fairfield Engineering Co.; J. E. Barger, Marion Business College; Bill Bland, Commercial Steel Casting Co.; William D. Martin, C., D. & M. Electric Co.; and F. L. Thomas, of the Osgood Co.

Officers of the organization elected at the meeting include E. F. Hawkins, president; R. J. Lares, secretary; F. L. Thomas, treasurer, and B. Uebnke, publicity and advertising.

LOGAN GAS, STAR DIVIDE HONORS IN PIN CONTESTS

Both Teams Win Three Straight Industrial Matches

The Logan Gas Co. and the Star last night easily won the Industrial League bowling matches on the Y. M. C. A. alleys.

The Logan Gas team took three consecutive games from the Pennsy and Hocking Valley men, running up a large margin of points in each contest. The Stars bowled to victory in three games with the Marion County Lumber Co.

Fahey was high scorer of the Logan Gas team, rolling a total of 200 points in one game. Anthony ranked second with 197 points. Thomas led the Stars with 198 points in one contest and 197 in another. Cahill bowled 184 in the second game of the match.

The Marion Steam Shovels still led the league as the last match of the fifth round was chalked up last night. The Logan Gas, Huberts, and Anthonys are tied in a race for second position. The Post Office crew dropped to third place when the Steam Shovels took two games from them Thursday night.

Displaymen come fourth with the Stars on their heels. The C. D. & M. Huskers rank sixth, the Pennsy and Hocking Valley are in seventh place, Y-Twins occupies eighth position, and the Marion County Lumber and American Express remain in a tie for the cellar position.

Stagg's Gridders Smarting Under Ignominy of Three Defeats

Chicago, Nov. 6—Smarting under the ignominy of three consecutive defeats [illegible] Chicago football squad [illegible] Illinois at Champaign tomorrow with the avowed purpose of scoring a touchdown against Illinois, conqueror of Penn, Indiana and Chicago's hitherto [illegible] since 1922.

The friendly enmity and the frequent mauling [illegible] annually make this one of the most colorful and most peculiar Big Ten games, regardless of the evident inferiority of either or both of the contestants, and lacking today [illegible] Stagg Field will be taxed to capacity. The game in itself will have little or no import save with the exception of its bearing on Illinois' remote chances to win the Big Ten title. MANSFIELD AND SHELBY TO MEET

Rival Professional Elevens To Tangle Sunday in Classic

Shelby Blues and Rex Billiards Richland County's rival professional football teams, will meet Sunday afternoon at Shelby for one of the greatest battles of the year.

If history repeats itself the Blues will win by one touchdown just as they did last year. But with the Mansfield allegiance solidly behind the team the Billiards are prepared to fight to the last ditch.

The game is attracting interest of all football fans in Richland County and the largest crowd of the season is expected.

"Seven Dead Heats on Turf This Year" says newspaper headline. The number of dead heats was much larger, however.

BOILERMAKER 11 AND PURPLE TEAM IN BATTLE ROYAL

Game for Once Takes on Importance in Conference

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 6—Basking in the glory of football supremacy, Purdue and Northwestern for years the underdogs of the Western Conference, will meet here this afternoon in one of the most important championship contest of the day's Big Ten play.

Forty five thousand homecoming revelers will see these two teams, undefeated in the conference, match brute force and cunningness in the line and speed and craftiness in the backfield.

In addition to the pent up rivalry between the seeking teams, there is anticipated a spirited clash between two of the outstanding personalities in Big Ten football.

Captain "Moon" Baker will put his ability against that of "Cotton" Wilcox, Purdue halfback, whose name is stamped on the West's prospective all honor roll.

Betting was even early today, with Northwestern money offered more freely than Purdue's. The probable lineup:

In the game yesterday Floyd, Bowling Green right half, was the outstanding star, being responsible for both touchdowns with sensational runs of 25 and 30 yards each.

Football Dance to be Held Here for Michigan Rooters

First class entertainment will be furnished Michigan students and football fans, together with residents of this city and surrounding counties, on the night preceding the Michigan-Ohio State football classic, when David Murray and Hilda Lee, stellar dancers, will appear in the ballroom of the Harding Hotel.

This announcement was made today by Charles Harrison, who is arranging the entertainment.

Accomodations for 300 Michigan students and fans have been reserved at the Harding Hotel for Friday and Saturday nights of next week, Manager Charles F. Ganyey announced today. The two will stop in Marion overnight, Friday, and proceed to Columbus early Saturday morning. On the homeward journey, they will remain in the Harding Saturday night and continue the next morning.

With Murray comes his own 16 piece orchestra will probably supply the dance music for the occasion.

The entertainment by Murray and his wife will be staged in the ballroom and will be put on in connection with a regular dance.

Murray is without a doubt one of the greatest dancers, if not the greatest, to make an appearance in Marion during recent years. He and his wife, who is known in the theatrical world as Hilda Lee, are on their way now from Hollywood to New York, where they are engaged for the coming season.

Movie Double

Murray doubled for John Gilbert in the dancing scenes of "The Merry Widow," featuring Mae Murray. He also took the part of Harold Lloyd in "The Freshman" during a special dancing scene.

CRIMSON TILT WITH PRINCETON FEATURE IN EAST

Penn and Penn State Battle Next of Importance

New York, Nov. 6—Although both elevens have been soundly trounced this season, the Harvard-Princeton game was easily the outstanding feature of today's football program in the East. Interest in the classic was heightened by Harvard's brilliant comeback against Dartmouth and by the fact that the Tiger seven will present its full strength for the first time this season.

Next in importance came the clash between Penn and Penn State, traditional rivals of the Keystone State.

And the contest between New York University and Carnegie Tech.

Penn was favored to beat the Nittany Lions while the Skibes presented strongest opposition encountered New York University, in its season's match along the road to fame.

Syracuse's crippled eleven faced a hard game against Georgetown while Fordham's defeats were forgotten with the maroons locked horns with Holy Cross, their bitter rival. Columbia was picked to defeat William and Mary while the Pitt West Virginia affair was a toss up.

Other items on today's gridiron menu were Bucknell vs Lehigh; Navy vs West Virginia Wesleyan; Army vs Franklin and Marshall; Rutgers vs Lafayette, and Washington and Jefferson vs Bethany.

Brisbane, Australia, has tried the experiment of holding horse races at night by aid of artificial light. Large arc lamps were placed about half a furlong part around the circular track.

A Story of Boyhood Adventures

BY JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

Saturday. And it was a the hill. A lot of hard when the days was cold of soft snow had fell on and when we all got with our slays Hattie hur- to be the first one to slide slides down hill he does but a girl always sets Hattie sot on her slay it forward by sticking her snow till it got past the she pulled up her feet go, and the hill was slicker us had thought. She went till like she was falling out and then she went acrosst like a streek and the front of the railroad bankment and nose went forward and blam- the frozen gravel and when it was bleeding, and she it with a handkerchief out nocker, but it wouldn't stop. said for someone to hold some the back of her neck, and to do it, and he held out her dress and let the snow her back, and she gave a hit him so hard that he sot ice so hard I thought the his back would come up through his hat, and then she went away acrosst the pond dragging her slay and wiggling because of the cold snow in her clothes and she went to my house because it was the nearest, and I did not go with her because I thought I might get blamed for it.

We all took our slays and went around to Miss Parmers and I pulled my slay right up against the steps and was just going to knock on the door when it opened and Miss Parmer came out with a big dishpan full of celery tops and potato peelings and things to throw in the garbage, and it was so big that she did not see what was in front of her and she went down the steps and stepped on my slay and it scooted away like it thought she wanted to ride, and her other foot went up in the air and she sot down so hard that we knew she would not want us around, so when Feeble and Youniss helped her in the kitchen we took our slays and went out to the stink factory to hunt rats, but we did not catch any. Rats are pretty smooth.

I went home and found I was not blamed for anything, so I played checkers with my grandfather and got blamed because he did not win and got mad and I put my hand over my mouth and snickered.

Daily Bedtime Story

BY HOWARD GARIS

Uncle Wiggily and His Friends

was one of the forty 'leven children who lived with Wiggily Longears, his wife and Fuzzy Wuzzy in the hollow bungalow. Tumble was a little also were Bumble and Stumble, others who were most like him. Bumble, he was always trying to Tumble was always tumbling. As Bumble, he was always trying to bumble bees, because he said he to hear them buzz. He never them, always letting them go after he had played with them a while.

And once Bumble was stung while playing with a bee, and he let this one go much more quickly than he had ever let a bee go before.

But this story is about Tumble and his top, so I must get along with it, if you please.

One day Tumble fell down rather harder than usual and when he arose he had a toothache. Perhaps the tooth would have ached anyhow, if Tumble had not tumbled. But, anyhow, he went in the bungalow holding his paw to his mouth and crying.

"What's the matter?" asked Daddi-cums Uncle Wiggily, who was just going to hop away and look for an adventure.

"I have a toot—toot—I have a —" began Tumble, who could hardly talk.

"Oh, you have a toot, have you?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "I suppose you mean you have a horn and can toot it."

"Oh, no, no!" sobbed Tumble. "I fell down and I have a toot—toot—toothache!"

"Oh, that's quite too bad!" said Uncle Wiggily, picking up his little bunny boy in his arms and hopping back with him into the bungalow. "The toothache! Dear! Dear! I'll take you over to Dr. Bear, the kind dentist, and he will pull out the aching tooth-"

Tumble's tooth ached so much that he wasn't afraid, as some children are, to go to the dentist's office. But the trouble was, when Uncle Wiggily got to Dr. Bear's house, the dentist was out and would not be in until next day.

"We shall come tomorrow," said Mr. Longears, carrying Tumble back home. But on the way the tooth ached worse and poor Tumble cried and sighed and sobbed.

"I wish my toothache would stop, so it would!"

And just then Uncle Wiggily saw in a store window a pretty, red, toy top and the bunny gentleman said:

"Do you want a top, top, top do you, Tumble? Very well, you shall have a top!" Now Tumble hadn't said he would stop. But he was so glad to get the toy his father bought him that, for a time, he forgot his tooth. He held the toy in his paw and reaching the bungalow, sat on the floor and played with it.

His tooth seemed to stop after a while, but all of a sudden it began again and Tumble, flinging his top from him, howled and cried again as the top flew across the room.

"I'll carry him on my shoulders piggie back," offered Uncle Wiggily, and this stopped the little rabbit boy's sobs for a while. However, the tooth kept on aching and Tumble called loudly for his top. But when they looked for it they couldn't find it. All over the room the search was made, but there was no top.

"This is going to be an all-night job, I think," said Uncle Wiggily with a sigh as darkness fell. "I'll put on my slippers and walk Tumble up and down the room. That may keep him quiet until we can have his tooth pulled tomorrow." But as Uncle Wiggily put one paw in his left-foot slipper, the bunny gave a jump and cried: "Oh! Wow! Ouch!"

He carried him piggie back.

"Did the Fox bite you?" asked his wife.

"No, but I jammed my toes against something in my slipper!" howled Mr. Longears and when he looked, there inside his slipper, where it had landed when Tumble flung it across the room, was the missing top, as red as a beet.

"Oh, there's my top!" cried Tumble. "Let me play with that and I will forget about my aching tooth!" So they gave him the top and he spun it and listened to the hum until he fell asleep and then his toothache stopped, and the next day it was pulled.

Thus everything came out all right, and if the hammer doesn't hit the nail on the head and turn it into a carpet tack, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Lulu's locket.

Always advocate liberty; but the minute you define it, you get into trouble.

Try self-denial and strengthen your soul. When a man tells a funny story, laugh and don't tell another one.

REPORT ON BANK LOANS AFFECTS STOCK TRADING

Wall-St Speculators Disappointed with Small Decline in Borrowings of Brokers

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Railroad stocks steady; industrial stocks irregular, domestic bonds firm; foreign bonds slightly irregular; grain slightly irregular; copper steady; oil steady; cotton steady, rubber steady, sugar steady, pig iron steady, forgeen exchange steady.

New York, Nov. 6—Speculative enthusiasm was dampened at the beginning of trading today by the New York Stock Exchange's report on members' bank borrowings, which declined only $27,000,000 in October, compared with the $200,000,000 contraction indicated in the Federal Reserve Bank's weekly summaries. This was taken to mean that liquidation of weakly stocks in the October decline had not been on as large a scale as was generally believed and encouraged bearish selling of the leading speculative stocks.

A report that Chesapeake & Ohio would form the leasing center or king pin of the new Nickel Plate system was not credited in some important sections of the speculative district. At any rate, Chesapeake & Ohio was freely sold in the first period and declined about two points, while Nickel Plate old stocks were also under selling pressure.

Expectations of a 10 to 12 per cent income tax cut retroactive on 1925 and applicable to 1926 incomes as intimated in the Washington dispatches constituted the most important outside factor in the Wall st. district. These were not sufficient to prevent heavy offerings of the outstanding industrial stock leaders, including Steel common and General Motors, though steel offered resistance to selling pressure in the last hour.

Selling of the motor stocks extended all the way through the list from General Motors to the cheapest of the shares which have been gradually slipping to the lower price levels.

The commodity markets were steady, but inactive.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the friends and neighbors who assisted us during the sickness and death of our son, Marcus Wayne. The ministers for their comforting words, for the many beautiful floral offerings, the quartet, and those who furnished conveyances, or helped in any way.

Mr and Mrs H W Rodock and Daughter Adv-1c

OBITUARY

Marcus Wayne came to brighten the hearts and home of Harley and Iva Rodock, on June 12, 1917, at Bradner, Ohio.

At the age of two years he moved with his parents to Springfield, Ohio, where he lived until the age of six years when they went to Chesterland, O., where the first three years of his school life were spent and where he gained a warm place in the hearts of all by his sunny smile and his sweet unselfishness in always giving and doing for others.

In August of this year Mr. Rodock's family moved to Martel, where Marcus entered school with the same sweet way and endeared himself to his teachers and schoolmates, and was in the school room where he loved to be when stricken with the malady from which the Heavenly Father retrieved him on Friday morning, Oct. 29th, leaving the father, mother and sister Gertrude grief stricken as are also the many relatives, friends, teachers and schoolmates, both in day and Sunday School, to whom heaven seems just a little nearer, because Marcus awaits them there Adv 1 c
